

we are supposed to live in a democracy, the greatest form of government yet conceived. And yet, when the same major corporations that own the media also control a political party what we are left with is a dictatorship - not the military kind but a corporate dictatorship. This corporate dictatorship is a dire threat to our freedoms and liberties that so many have fought and died for over the last centuries. It is the responsibility of every American to do what they can in this time of crisis for democracy, it is the least we owe this great country.

Now, can you really look yourself in the eyes and say that a "documentary" entitled "Stolen Honor: wounds that Never Heal" forced across prime time airwaves just two weeks before a major election is NOT a partisan ploy? This is your time to be a hero for this country and help us reclaim our democracy from those who would so easily take it from us.

Thank you,

Anne
